Products and categories

Accessories earn the best margin; Footwear is the weak spot

Top 5 products by sales

Product	Sales	Margin
Outerwear 178	$938K	68.9%
Sandal 986	$868K	57.5%
Activewear 377	$810K	68.4%
Watches 890	$806K	77.1%
Jacket 925	$800K	66.7%

Product Concentration & Pricing Dynamics

- Top 5 products: 5.5% of total sales, showing minimal dependency.
- Price-driven: Rankings reflect price; unit volumes are near-equal.
- Discount impact: Discounts above 30% cut profit margin sharply to 41%.

Customers and segments

VIP is the most valuable per customer; Wholesale lags on margin

Segment	Customers	Sales	Margin	Profit / cust.
Returning	1,970	$30.9M	61.7%	$9,673
New	1,771	$27.0M	60.7%	$9,255
VIP	783	$12.8M	63.1%	$10,299
Wholesale	476	$6.3M	54.8%	$7,208

Segment Profitability

- Returning: Leads in total profit ($19.06M).
- VIP Segment: Dominates margin (63.1%) and profit/cust ($10,299).
- Wholesale: Lags at 54.8% margin and $7,208/customer.

Customer Concentration

- Broad Base: Exceptionally low revenue concentration across base.
- Top 10% Share: Generates only 13.6% of overall sales volume.
- Active Buyers: ~80% of customers purchased in the last 90 days.

ID vs Name Data Quality

- Top Accounts: Luis Lynch, Barbara Clark, Daniel Whitaker ($25K–$27K).
- Grouping Risk: 'James Smith' combines 5 distinct IDs ($80.6K).
- Action Needed: Entity resolution needed for accurate account tracking.

Narrow 87%–93% band

Target Setting & Model Calibration

- 83-Month Target Miss: Target achievement sits consistently between 87% and 93% with zero variance.
- Structural Inflation: Targets appear to be set ~12% above a flat historical baseline rather than reflecting actual demand.
- Recent Trajectory: Q3 2026 achieved 90.1%; Q4 to date stands at 88.8%, tracking the historical baseline closely.

Correlation: Quantity vs Profit

- Monthly Aggregate (r = 0.998): Strong correlation between total monthly unit volume and monthly gross profit.
- Customer & Order Level (r = 0.78 / 0.61): Moderate-to-strong linkage between volume and profit at the buyer level.
- Category Disconnect (r ~ 0.1): Negligible correlation across categories; profit is governed by margin and discount discipline.

Sales channels and fulfillment dynamics

Digital platforms and shipping tiers deliver identical 61.0% margins: mix variables, not margin levers

Sales by Acquisition Channel

Channel	Sales	Share	Margin
Web	$34.42M	44.7%	61.0%
Mobile App	$30.89M	40.2%	61.0%
Social Media	$11.63M	15.1%	61.0%

Fulfillment & Shipping Speed

Shipping Method	Orders (Est.)	Share	Margin
Standard	150,000	60.0%	61.0%
Express	75,000	30.0%	61.0%
Next Day	25,000	10.0%	61.0%

Channel Invariance

Margin: Identical 61.0% across all channels.

Web: Leads with $34.42M (44.7% of sales).

App & Social: App $30.89M (40.2%); Social $11.63M.

Shipping Distribution

Standard: Delivers 60% of volume (150K orders).

Express: Represents 30% (75K orders) with no bleed.

Next Day: Accounts for 10% (25K orders) at 61% margin.

Strategic Takeaways

Neutral Levers: Platforms and delivery do not sway margin.

Channel Shifts: Web vs App mix will not bridge target miss.

Focus Areas: Drive Accessories and curb shoe discounts.

Recommendations

Close the target gap by fixing margin, mix and the model itself

1

Reset targets

Rebase on run-rate and seasonality, or fund a real growth plan.

2

Fix footwear discounting

Cap deep discounts; 5 margin points is about $1.0M profit.

3

Shift mix to Accessories

72.8% margin vs 49.8% for Footwear.

4

Smooth the Jan/Feb trough

Campaigns and loyalty offers; plan stock for Nov/Dec.

5

Protect VIP, fix Wholesale

VIP fell 4.1% in 2025; Wholesale pricing and cost-to-serve review.

6

Grow LATAM and New customers

+5.9% and +5.4% in 2025; watch discount depth.
